France's Love Grows Cold—Another Lady Shoots—Headaches in the Atom—The Highest Knowledge.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

They don't love us in France as they did. The Paris Temps asks "Was the discovery of America really worth while to the human race?" and publishes a list of those that have decided against us. The Temps' verdict says "the discovery of America was harmful to the human race."

The able English historian Green, didn't go as far as that, did give his plan to write a history of the United States. His reason was "the people of this country obtained their freedom before they were fit for it."

To Americans that realize their shortcomings all this is depressing. But, as regards France and America, this thought might be offered to the Paris Temps.

The discovery of America made it possible for France to borrow five thousand millions of dollars from the United States. The good nature of America has made it possible for France to refrain from paying interest or principal on that sum up to now. Also the cooperation of the United States, in men, money and supplies, made it possible for France to remain under French government instead of being transferred to German government.

However, such discussions are foolish. The French are a great people, and we are glad to have helped them, although it was expensive.

Every French family is in mourning for a son, brother or father. France in no way provoked the war, brutal and destructive. She showed marvelous courage, all her ancient genius and patriotism in defending herself.

Whether this country was worth discovering or not, we are glad to have helped France remain FRENCH.

The Temps remarks in its learned discourse that we have taught France only how to make cocktails. The old reply to that would be that she taught us only how to fry snails and frogs' legs. But that sort of "argument" is out of date. France is a great nation, and will feel better in a few years.

Lawlessness is spreading too rapidly. Another lady, not the wife of the gentleman, kills another Protestant Episcopalian clergyman. She shot him dead in his house, then killed herself. Rev. Edward J. Christler is his name. She was Mrs. Carleton, wife of a former judge now living in California.

At Westhope, North Dakota village, the inhabitants have posted sentries on the highways to keep out highwaymen and burglars.

Many in the new school of criminals, it is said, are graduates from the bootleg industry, which is a regular business and a dangerous one along the Canadian border. First the war, and then bootlegging have made laws and property and the safety of individuals seem unimportant.

Sir William Bragg says science has almost solved the secret of the atom. It makes you dizzy to read it.

If you could release half the power that holds together the molecules, atoms and electrons in a five-cent piece and harness up that power you would develop energy equal to that developed by a million horsepower engine running without stopping for forty million years. Hard to believe but FACT.

Once the atom was supposed to be the smallest possible particle of matter, its very name means in Greek "uncuttable," too small to be divided.

Now we know that each atom is made up of a number of electrons varying in different elements.

There is in each atom a central electron, the others circling around it as the planets circle around our sun. And compared with the atom in which they whirl, those electrons are about as big as so many dust motes floating in the air in a large convention hall.

Compared with an atom, your body is a gigantic universe. And compared with the universe, your body and the earth on which you live is less than an electron.

So, in language of old politics, "Where are we at?" By the way, it is through study of crystal

DEPORT LOCAL FAMILY

Alleged Immorality Causes Deportation of Family to Italy—Authorities Also Feared They Might Become Charges Upon the Community.

Their love for America not great enough to overcome their immoral desires, Anello Perella, his wife, Sophia, and their four minor children who formerly lived at 142 Holroyd avenue, this city, were taken to New York City today for deportation to Italy, their mother country.

The case has been in the United States courts for some time but came to an abrupt close this morning when word was received from Congressman Schuyler Merritt that he had communicated with the Secretary of Labor in an attempt to delay their ultimate deportation but that Secretary Davis had refused to intervene. Shortly after this telegram was received, an agent from the Department of Labor arrived to escort the family to New York, from where they will be deported.

The cause for their deportation dates back to shortly after their arrival in this country. The oldest daughter was at that time but 15 years of age, and had only been in Bridgeport about six months when she and her uncle, Joseph DeFelice, of 4 Middle street, were arrested by the local police on statutory charges. The girl was sent to the House of Good Shepherd while the uncle was given a four months' sentence in the county jail.

Shortly after this the father lost his position and was forced to apply to the city for aid.

At this point the immigration authorities decided to take a hand and the father was arrested and taken to the Department of Labor, at which time he was found guilty on two charges which carried with them the sentence of deportation. The first was his application to the city for aid, and the subsequent likelihood that he would become a financial burden to society while the second charge intimated that the father had knowledge that immoral relations existed between the uncle and his daughter.

This point of the case was fiercely argued by Perella's counsel, who claimed the defendant did not possess the knowledge and had no inkling of their clandestine meetings, and subsequent immoral relations until the pair had been arrested.

However, when it was learned that the children were minors and unable to provide for themselves, the decision of the whole family was ordered.

ALBANY THREATENED WITH COAL FAMINE

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 28.—With the temperature going down to the freezing mark every night, 2,000 Albany families are without coal, local dealers estimate. Hundreds of telephone calls are received daily by the dealers, begging for half ton and quarter ton lots.

Guy D. Hills, county fuel administrator, said today he thought the "temporary emergency" would soon pass.

Miller-Hall Murder Before Grand Jury Next Monday

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 28.—Deputy Attorney General William A. Mott, generalissimo in charge of the investigation of the mysterious murder of Rev. Dr. Edward W. Hall, rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church of St. John the Evangelist, and the beautiful choir singer, Mrs. James Mills, today began to sort and assemble the mass of testimony for presentation to the Grand Jury, probably on Monday.

In addition to the evidence collected by Mott himself, a vast amount of testimony has been turned over to him by the prosecuting attorneys and county detectives of Somerset and Middlesex counties and by the state police.

The deputy attorney general said he would be at his office in Newark all day and in the meantime, the investigation here practically marked the end of the case. State police and county detectives who were "checking up loose ends" of the various stories told by various people.

The statement of Mrs. Jane Gibson, eye witness of the double murder on the night of September 14, is expected to play an important part in the testimony that is given to the Grand Jury. Photographs have been taken of the spot on the old Phillips farm, where the bodies were found on September 14, for the guidance of the Grand Jury.

Football Game Will Boost Miss Rogan's France Fund

Sport comes to the front to swell the fund of Miss Isabel Rogan winner of the Good Will election which will take her to France. On Armistice Day, two weeks from today, there will be a football game played at Newfield Park between the Bridgeport and Fort Jay eleven, the proceeds of which will be donated to Miss Rogan's fund.

"We will go over the top," declared Manager Michael Healy today when he made arrangements for the soldier footballers to play here.

The Fort Jay aggregation is one of the speediest eleven in the metropolitan district and have defeated some of the leading platoon combinations this season.

Manager Healy has jumped into the preparations with a vim and is confident it will be one of the most successful benefit sport events staged in the city.

Tickets will be on sale within a few days.

BOAT AND BOOZE CARGO IS SEIZED

New York City, Oct. 28.—Politicians on the high seas today led to seizure of the motorboat "Dodger" together with 200 cases of liquor valued at $20,000 and the arrest of the crew, Patrick Higgins and K. Gaster by members of the U. S. Navy Cutter Hahn. Higgins said that they came upon a schooner in distress about 14 miles off Seabright, N. J., which with a smashed bow was trying to ride out a gale. He declared that the schooner's skipper admitted he was carrying a "wet" cargo from the Bahamas and offered $200 if the "Dodger" would take off 200 cases of liquor as an act of mercy. The skipper feared the schooner would sink if the heavy cargo remained on board.

FOOTBALL INJURIES FATAL TO YOUTH

Washington, Oct. 28.—Injuries received in football resulted in the death here yesterday of Wayne Howard, 18 years old, ward of the National Youth Center for Boys here. The youth was carried from the field after making a diving tackle in scrimmage between two of the school teams a week ago. It was said to have ruptured an intestinal blood vessel.

No More Arrests Expected.

It was generally believed that the detectives would await one or more indictments before making any arrests, although it was admitted that an unforeseen development might make it possible and expedient to make arrests before the Grand Jury acts.

The investigation of this baffling murder mystery, which is now in its seventh week without a single arrest being made on the direct charge of murder, appeared today to be nearing a dramatic climax. But even now it is impossible to predict just when the denouement will come. Mott said that he himself could not make a decisive prediction.

Reports that Mrs. Gibson had gone to Pennsylvania, giving the impression that she had "fled," was untrue. Mrs. Gibson was at her home today on her farm, not far from the Phillips place where the murders were committed.

Further details by Mrs. Gibson, who undoubtedly will prove the "star" witness before the grand jury and the trial that may follow, and further investigation at the home of Henry Stevens, brother of Mrs. Hall, at Lavallette, N. J., apparently put Mr. Stevens out of the case entirely. There are from eight to ten persons at Lavallette who are prepared to swear that Stevens was on a fishing expedition on the night of the murder, many miles away from the scene of the melodrama.

LT. BURNS DEAD AS RESULT OF HIS HEROISM

Brother of Head of Education Board Left Sick Bed to Answer Fire Alarm and Never Recovered.

Lieut. Thomas F. Burns of the department 1212, has served as driver for Chief Daniel E. Johnson, has not been well since and today his friends in the department directly contributed his death to his heroic response to duty while ill last May.

He was 44 years old and personally popular with all who knew him. He was unmarried and is survived by only his brother Owen. Funeral services will be held from his late residence at 137 Caroline street at 8:30 o'clock next Tuesday morning and from St. Charles church at 9 o'clock with a solemn high mass. Interment will be in St. Michael's cemetery.

Broken Collar Bone Keeps Local Youth from Seeing Game

When the teams troop out on the field this afternoon for the big Harvard football game, there will be one Bridgeport youth absent who had fondly hoped to witness the contest.

He is Bert Baldwin of Seaview avenue, who had his ticket for the game, and had made all preparations to go. But yesterday afternoon fate played him a cruel turn. While practicing football he was seriously injured. He is nursing a broken collar bone today and the ticket—well, a more fortunate mortal will view the game with the ticket.

New York, Oct. 28.—Liquor valued at more than $100,000 said to have been stolen from Pershing warehouse, Brooklyn, where United States internal revenue department stores are kept, was recovered late last night following the arrest of eight men in a Manhattan store room.

Let us send our representative over in the right way.

ALDERMAN KISCO WILL ASK FOR CITY ARCHITECT

Alderman Frank J. Kisco, Republican of the Tenth district, is going to introduce a resolution on Monday's meeting of the Common Council asking the appointment or creation of a city architect to the designing of all city buildings and schools. Alderman Kisco in a resolution declares that the city within the past ten years has spent approximately $80,000 for architects' services in designing schools, alone, exclusive of municipal buildings such as the Welfare building, Hillside Home and other public places. A total, Alderman Kisco declares, of near a quarter of a million dollars has been spent on public buildings to private architects. The resolution will come up for action Monday. He suggests a yearly salary of $10,000.

It is also expected that some discussion will come up at Monday's meeting of the Common Council on the report of the Finance Committee relative to the $1,300,000 bond issue for the erection of the new proposed East Side High school. Alderman Sanford and Doherty have balked on the matter and have declared that they will not sign a favorable report on the matter until the Board of Education selects a local architect. Several other brother aldermen have censured the action of the two aldermen and it is expected that at caucus pressure will be used to force the two balking members of the committee to sign the report, so that the work of starting on the school program contemplated can be commenced.

AUTO PLUNGES OFF BRIDGE IN RIVER; DRIVER ESCAPES

Norwalk, Oct. 28.—Lester Cole, 24, was taken to the hospital today after a most miraculous escape from death by drowning when his machine side-swiped by another car, according to his story, plunged through the guard rail on the New Canaan avenue bridge here and landed bottom side up in the Norwalk river, 25 feet below the bridge. Cole, rendered unconscious by the fall, says he lay under the machine, half covered with water, for six hours. When he regained consciousness he managed to crawl out from under the machine, made his way to the river bank and crawled to a house nearly a quarter of a mile away. Here he told his story and was sent to the hospital. His injuries are not serious, though he suffered seriously from exposure.

G. O. P. RULE SCORED AT BIG RALLY

Mayor FitzGerald, Senator Pat Harrison and Thomas J. Spellacy Principal Speakers at Enthusiastic Democratic Gathering Attended by More than 2,500.

That the Republican Administration had forgotten the farmer, the laborer, the business man and the ordinary man, and had joined hands with special privilege was a main point in the speech by Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi at the big Democratic rally held in the Casino last night and attended by several thousands of people. Senator Harrison said:

"Forgetful of the welfare of the farmer and the laborer and business man of ordinary means, the order of the present Administration has been established that, not only shall selfish predatory interests have constant entries into the White House and Committee Rooms of the Congress, but it has co-opted to see that not only its representatives should sit in high places and speak and vote for them, but that these selfish predatory interests themselves should be favored with places in the Congress."

"No blacker page was ever written in the history of the American Senate than when so-called representatives of the people joined forces and, under the approval of a system that was so interlocked—fashioned after the old plan inaugurated and practiced in New York City in Wall Street until it was legislated out of existence—these so-called representatives of the people foisted upon the American consumer additional burdens in high taxation on wool and sugar and chemicals a billion dollars in increased tariff rates."

"The Democratic minority fought these nefarious practices, revealed them to the country and employed every parliamentary maneuver in order to force an investigation, that the American people might be given all the facts. These investigations were thwarted by the Republican majority, and under this inexcusable system of interlocking of selfish interests, trading, swamping, and agreeing in the imposition of high rates, the American people must go through the coming years, until these money-changes are driven from the temple at Washington, paying to these special and favored few the savings from their toil and efforts."

"I would not give the impression that the American Senate or Congress is corrupt, but I do say that the system that was inaugurated and practiced in the framing of the Fordney-McCumber Tariff Bill was indefensible, was wrong in principle, unfair in its results and damnable in its practice. It cannot be defended before the American people and the time will come when this country will demand of the American Congress that no so-called Representatives of the people of either branch of the Congress can vote upon a measure the effect of which will benefit the Representative personally at the expense of the American people."

Harrison Predicts Democratic Victory

Senator Pat Harrison, Democrat of Mississippi, in a talk with newspapermen previous to his speech at the Casino last night, declared that "Everywhere through the country was with the Democrats, that the people of the nation were disgusted with the Republican administration and were looking for a great majority in favor of the Democrats in both the lower and upper houses."

"I sincerely believe that Ohio will swing into the Democratic ranks after Nov. 7," Senator Harrison declared. "Everywhere the trend is toward Democracy. In the far west enthusiasm for the Democrats is wonderful. In Ohio, the Republican leaders are worried. I think that we will win 15 congressmen from that state. In the Senate I think that the Democrats will have from 5 to 15 new members, replacing Republicans."

Senator Harrison declared that there was doubt and uncertainty everywhere; that the contentment of six years ago had given away to a feeling of restlessness and uneasiness on the part of the great mass of people; that the predatory interests were attempting to strangle the great mass of the people; that the Republican administration had promised many things and had failed to redeem any of them; that the Fordney-McCumber tariff was a piece of monstrosity ever conceived; that it was rotten to the stomach and that Senator George P. McLean had helped to frame it and that the special interests, Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi hurled a deft at Republicans of Connecticut and the nation and address to the 2,500 people at the big Democratic rally and pleaded for the election of the Democratic state ticket and the election of "Tom" Spellacy as senator from Connecticut.

SEEK CLUE FOR CLERGYMAN AND WOMAN MURDER

Have, Mont., Oct. 28.—Town folks today were reviewing incidents in the lives here of the principals of the double tragedy which stalked through Have and left dead in its wake the Reverend Leonard J. Christler, "Bishop of All Outdoors," and Mrs. Margaret Carleton, known as "the most beautiful woman in Montana," to provide a motive for the murder and suicide. Police and county officials said that they were convinced the pastor was slain by Mrs. Carleton, who then ended her life.

Little incidents which at the time passed almost unnoticed and were recalled today as every effort was made to piece together the story that was back of the tragedy.

From a letter of late, it was recalled the "Bishop of All Outdoors," a term of affection given the rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church because of the wide field of his missionary efforts, and Mrs. Carleton walked together on the streets, but few thought anything of it.

There had been talk months ago about the clergyman and Mrs. Carleton. Charges were made orally to the bishop of the district and testimony submitted but no official action was ever taken and the matter was dropped to still gossiping.

ROME IS UNDER MILITARY RULE

Rome, Oct. 28.—(I. N. S.)—A proclamation of martial law was issued in Rome today which was to be effective at noon. This drastic step was taken in anticipation of warfare between an army of Fascist, which was reported marching upon Rome, and regular troops, guarding the city.

Fighting has broken out north of this city. Four members of the Fascist were killed in fighting at the town of Frosinone. The Fascists are reported to have seized several towns.

Communication with the north has been interrupted in places indicating that clashes were taking place in those zones.

The government has issued a proclamation (in addition to the proclamation of martial law) saying that the military branch of the government is prepared to defend the state.

The military is taking over the power of the civil authorities at some places.
